

Benefits Of Having Multiple GPs Looking After Your Healthcare

With the large majority of GPs in Australia only working part-time, having more than one GP within the same clinic involved in your healthcare can offer a number of benefits. These include:

Increased Availability: In addition to your “regular GP”, with multiple GPs within the same clinic involved in your healthcare, you may be able to book appointments more readily and have a better chance of seeing a GP when you need to. This is particularly helpful if you have a busy schedule or if one GP is unavailable.

Enhanced Expertise: Each GP may have different areas of interests and expertise, which can be helpful in providing more comprehensive care. For example, one GP may have special interests in skin cancer procedures, while another may have special interests with sports injuries.

More Personalised Care: With more than one GP involved in your healthcare, you may be able to develop more personalised care plans that address your specific needs and preferences which can help to ensure your healthcare is tailored to you individually, rather than a one-size-fits-all approach.

Improved Continuity Of Care: Having more than one GP within the same clinic can also help to ensure continuity of care. With shared access to your patient file, if one GP is unavailable, another GP may readily be able to step in and provide care, ensuring there are no gaps in your treatment.

Better Coordination: With a Team of GPs within the same clinic, there may be better coordination and communication. This can be important if you have multiple health conditions or are taking multiple medications, as it can help to ensure all your healthcare needs are being addressed more efficiently.
